

Disability support work is more than you think

Opportunity awaits ... by 2023

1 in 5 new jobs in Australia will be in the disability sector

In WA, an estimated 10,000 new disability sector jobs will be created

Career opportunities include support workers, occupational therapists, speech pathologists, physiotherapists and support coordination jobs

1 About you

- Great communication skills
- Positive attitude
- Work well with others
- Punctual and reliable
- Problem-solver and flexible

The disability sector is looking for people like you!

2 What to expect

- Every day is different
- More than a salary - personal and professional growth
- Career progression opportunities
- Full-time, part-time and casual employment options
- Disability Support Worker base rates range between $21.57 and $43.14 (penalty rates and allowances apply)

3 Get job-ready

- Current driver's licence
- Current First Aid Certificate
- NDIS Quality, Safety & You Certificate – free at www.ndiscommission.gov.au/workers/training-course (90 minutes to complete)
- Certificate III in Individual Support (Disability) is highly regarded but not essential

4 Interested?

Discover more www.thinksupport.org.au

Register for a job www.jobsinwadisabilityservices.com

Make a call enquire with local disability service providers

Explore training options www.jobsandskills.wa.gov.au and www.apprenticeshipcommunity.com.au

Valued
Careers
Supporting inclusion every day

NDS National
Disability
Services